"POTENTIAL" Public Safety Power Shutoff (PSPS) Events for San Diego Gas & Electric (SDG&E)

The California State Warning Center (CSWC) received notifications from San Diego Gas & Electric advising they have notified customers of a potential Public Safety Power Shutoff (PSPS) due to an offshore wind event and critical fire weather conditions. CSWC has made notifications to State and Law Enforcement Agencies.

- The Cal OES State Operations Center is monitoring.

- SDG&E
- Per CUEA as of 11/15/18, 0600 hours, there are approximately 4,041 SDG&E PSPS outages.
- 16 circuits remain de-energized for public safety purposes.
- SDG&E anticipates having all circuits that are currently de-energized for public safety purposes re-energized by 1300 hours today (11/15/18).
- SDG&E Emergency Operations Center (EOC) remains activated at Level 2 for the Red Flag Warning event. The Red Flag Warning for the entire SDG&E service territory is in effect through 1700 hours on Wednesday, 11/14/18.
- Operational Period 8 is expected to report at the set time of 0500 on Thursday, 11/15/18 to continue the restoration effort until complete.
- Six Community Resource Centers (CRCs) will be activated from 0800 to 1800 through Thursday, 11/15/18 to provide up-to-date information on outages, water, snacks, and phone charging services.

Inland and Coastal Regions Summary

- Other than occasional breezy conditions, winds should be lighter through the rest of this week; however, conditions will remain very dry with above normal temperatures, so elevated fire weather conditions will persist through the week.
- Widespread poor air quality due to smoke will likely continue through the week.
- The first chance of precipitation in California still looks to be sometime around Thanksgiving and has trended toward arrival late next week, with low confidence on exact timing.

Southern Region Summary

- Wind speeds

- East to northeast winds 10-15 mph with gusts to 30 mph today

- Relative Humidity

- Dry: 5-25 percent

- Gusts as high as 30 mph are still expected over SoCal through Thursday evening.
- Weak onshore flow will slowly return to the area starting Friday and continue through early next week.
- The first chance of precipitation in California still looks to be sometime around Thanksgiving and has trended toward arrival late next week, with low confidence on exact timing.

WEATHER SYNOPSIS BY REGION

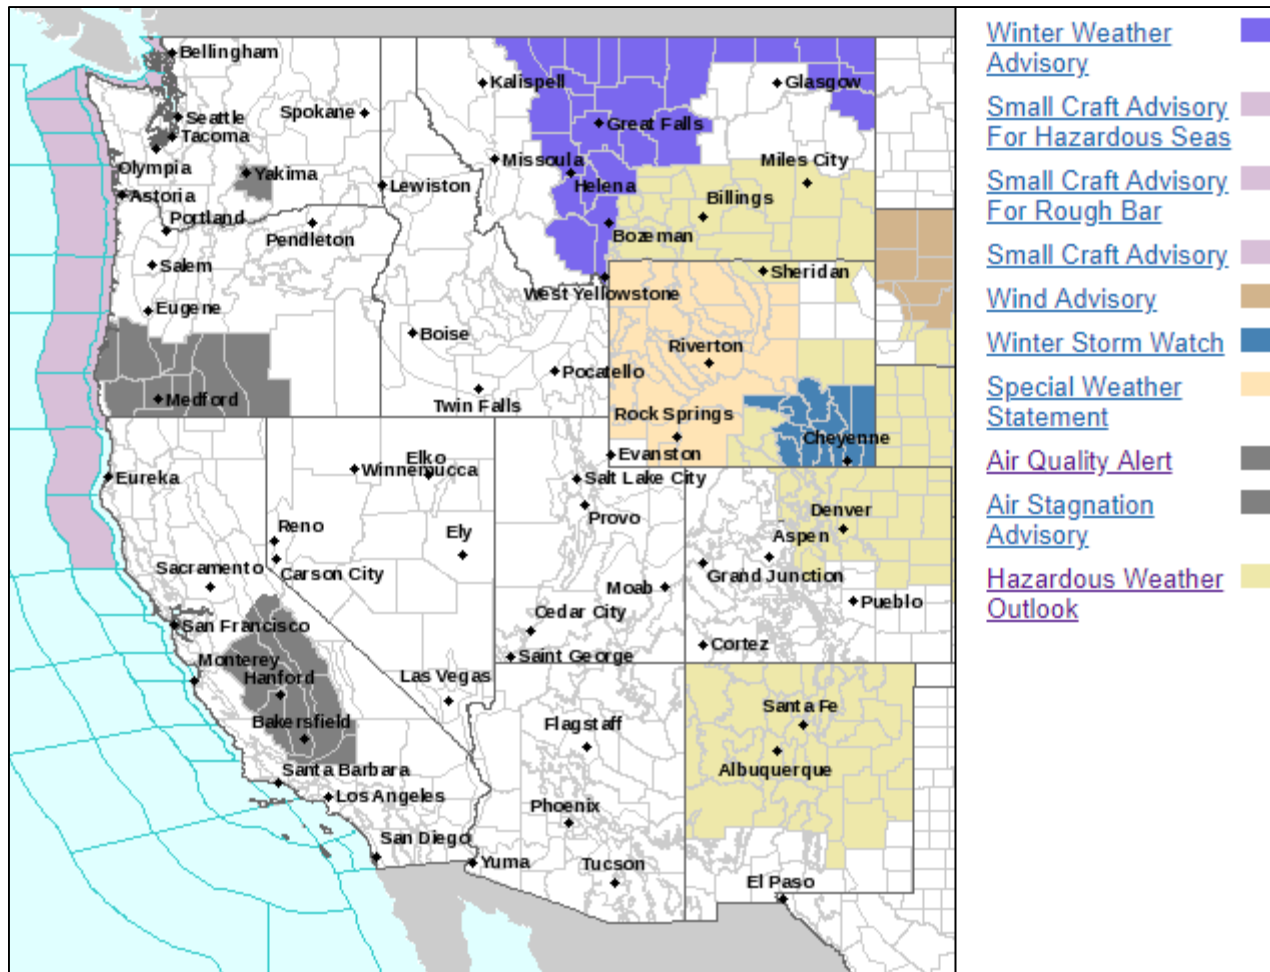

NORTHERN CALIFORNIA

-  Very dry conditions to continue through Tuesday, with areas of light to moderate night/morning N-NE winds ***
- High pressure will continue to produce warm, dry conditions through Tuesday.
- Night/morning N-NE gusts to 15-25 mph and locally higher in wind-prone spots from the western Cascade-Sierra slopes to the Coast Range through Tuesday, slightly higher Sunday night and Monday. Light up-slope/up-valley winds during afternoons.
- Afternoon Relative Humidity (RH) will be low (5-15%) most afternoons this week with poor overnight recovery (10-25%) in many areas, particularly mid and upper slopes. Some valley locations that have been very dry may see RH will increase in a few days to afternoon minimums of 15-20% and overnight recoveries of 25-35%.
- Afternoon high temperatures will continue 5-10 degrees above normal. Warmest inland areas mostly in the 70s. Overnight lows will be pretty close to seasonal values, and overnight frost/freezing conditions are likely to become a bit more widespread.
- Onshore flow, deeper marine layer and higher RH developing Wednesday. Widespread rain and high elevation snow becoming more likely Thanksgiving Day.

SOUTHERN CALIFORNIA

- A ridge of high pressure will sit over the West Coast through Monday. A series of Pacific troughs will move into the West Coast starting Tuesday of next week.
- There will be local northeast winds of 10 to 20 mph with gusts to 30 mph across the mountains and below the canyons and passes of Southern California this morning, otherwise winds will be light through the middle of next week.
- There will be Widespread single digit minimum humidity through Friday and then minimum humidity will increase into the teens this weekend through Monday. There will be very poor overnight humidity recovery tonight then nighttime humidity recovery will increase Friday through Monday.
- Temperatures will be near to a little above normal through Monday, with mid 50s to mid 60s across the mountains and 70s to low 80s in the valleys.
- Temperatures will cool to a little below normal and humidity will become fairly high Tuesday through the middle of next week.

GOVERNOR'S OFFICE OF EMERGENCY SERVICES

Mission:

We protect lives and property, build capabilities, and support our communities for a resilient California.

We achieve our mission by serving the public through effective collaboration in preparing for, protecting against, responding to, recovering from, and mitigating the impacts of all hazards and threats.
